Leadership Coaching

Leadership can be a lonely position if everyone expects you to have all of the answers. Great leaders make sure they have a "critical friend" - someone supportive, non-judgemental and independent - to talk to about themselves, their team and their business in complete confidence.

About this module

This module consists of three, hour-long, one-to-one leadership coaching sessions. Using insight from your Hogan Leadership Psychometric assessment, you will work on the areas most important to your personal development as a leader.

Who is it for?

This module is essential for leaders and managers who have been recently promoted, or are taking on greater responsibility, or who have found themselves facing a major obstacle they must overcome.

How will you benefit?

By the end of the session you will be able to:

- Become more self-aware as a leader, with greater self-knowledge
- Be clearer on the strengths of your leadership
- Have a deeper understanding of any obstacles holding you back
- Create different strategies to develop strengths and mitigate weaknesses
- Build your ability to lead with even greater confidence.
