Finance for Managers

Knowing the Numbers and Asking the Right Questions

Being an effective leader means making a valuable contribution across the wider organisation. Whilst you may be expert in your field, you may not be expert in finance or accounting. How can you join in the financial conversation, and make a valuable contribution if it is not your background?

About this module

Finance for Managers is a one-day practical and interactive session led by an expert in commercial finance. You will be taken step by step through the key financial documents every leader must understand, interpret and be able to question.

Who is it for?

If you are managing a budget or joining a cross functional leadership team or you simply want to expand your understanding of finance for your organisation, this module is for you.

How will you benefit?

By the end of the session you will:

- > See company financial accounts in 3D
- > Have the confidence to work with finance and accounts
- > Build a narrative between accounts, strategy and action
- > Develop your own organisational dashboard.
