What is MLDP?
The Manchester Leadership Development Programme is a short, flexible, ILM accredited, open leadership development course. It inspires and guides you to think creatively, organise differently and develop a mind-set which is critical for leadership. The programme will be delivered:

> Via a blended learning approach; in person over five consecutive days and through an online learning platform
> Separately as individual modules for organisations looking to upskill a team in a specific area
> Face-to-face

Leadership Coaching

Leadership can be a lonely position if everyone expects you to have all of the answers. Great leaders make sure they have a “critical friend” - someone supportive, non-judgemental and independent - to talk to about themselves, their team and their business in complete confidence.

About this module
This module consists of three, hour-long, one-to-one leadership coaching sessions. Using insight from your Hogan Leadership Psychometric assessment, you will work on the areas most important to your personal development as a leader.

Who is it for?
This module is essential for leaders and managers who have been recently promoted, or are taking on greater responsibility, or who have found themselves facing a major obstacle they must overcome.

How will you benefit?
By the end of the session you will be able to:

> Become more self-aware as a leader, with greater self-knowledge
> Be clearer on the strengths of your leadership
> Have a deeper understanding of any obstacles holding you back
> Create different strategies to develop strengths and mitigate weaknesses
> Build your ability to lead with even greater confidence.
