Leadership in Practice
Understanding your Leadership DNA
Great leadership starts with you. If you aren’t able to manage and lead yourself, how do you expect others to follow? But how can you get better at it, when you cannot simply put your work on hold?

ABOUT THIS MODULE
This module is a one-day interactive session, which focuses on you as a leader. Using Hogan Leadership Psychometric Assessment, you will discover your strengths, your blind spots, how your leadership changes under pressure and how you can improve.

WHO IS IT FOR?
This module is ideal for leaders who want to become more self-aware and effective.

HOW WILL YOU BENEFIT?
By the end of the session you will be able to:
• Recognise and understand what drives and motivates you
• Identify your leadership strengths under normal conditions
• Learn what personality traits can de-rail you when you’re under pressure
• Work to maximise your strengths and overcome obstacles to your leadership.

What is MLDP?
The Manchester Leadership Development Programme is a short, flexible, ILM accredited, open leadership development course. It inspires and guides you to think creatively, organise differently and develop a mind-set which is critical for leadership.
The flexible programme can be taken:
• As a one week block over five consecutive days
• Part-time one day every other week
• Separately as individual modules for organisations looking to upskill a team in a specific area
• Online or face-to-face.

MASTERCLASS EXPERT
Dr Courtney Owens, Lecturer in Leadership and Organisations, focuses on leadership psychometrics and how to put them to work.
“There is no perfect leader - it’s not about a specific style, but it is about adapting your strengths to the situation at hand.”

For information on this and other leadership modules, contact Kieran MacCourt, Business Development Manager
+44 (0) 7789 558356    kieran.maccourt@manchester.ac.uk